Introduction

Since the first CFS event was held in 2019, the show has gained critical acclaim from within the Muay Thai community and combat industry due to its no nonsense approach to production values and quality of bouts. The CFS events have raised the bar for International and World title bouts and has now become one of the must see Muay Thai events in Europe. Over the past 6 events it has had some of the finest muay thai and k1 fighters in the world, including Bernise Alldis, Grace Spicer, Lara Fernandez and Nico Carrillo to name but just a few. CFS has had several prestigious high profile World title bouts sanctioned by both the WBC and ISKA

2022 Schedule of events

Having already secured 3 dates at the Iconic Fairfield Halls venue, seating 1700 for next year and along with an additional amateur show to be held at a 700 seater venue, 2022 promises to be a massive year for CFS.

Every event will be filmed by MMA Live and broadcast on our PPV platform and has been purchased all over the world due to our growing success and use of international fighters.

In addition with a new social media marketing team in place, our social media and youtube channel growth will show increased growth and strong monetisation capability throughout 2022.

Social Media & Digital footprint

Having suffered as all in the fight industry did throughout the Covid pandemic, we are now in a position to continue our rapid growth in the Social Media marketplace. Having quickly acquired over 1800 followers on both Instagram and Facebook respectively immediately after our launch and being confident that the same rate of growth will be applicable as our events draw a larger International audience, we have turned our attention to the launch of our new revamped website at www.combatfightseries.com and improving all the features on our PPV platform. The opportunity for a sponsor to come on board across all the various platforms has never been more beneficial.
